Cleanings Here, There and Everywhere, But Mostly in Oxford County

BY LEONARD B. CHAPMAN.
BETHEL'S NEWSPAPER—PAST AND PRESENT.

Outside of the works of Nature there is one thing in Bethel towering above all others that demands in stories of local events special comment and special approval by individual well-wishers and the general public accompanied by a liberal patronage at this time showers of local news items with names of subscribers, it is her newspaper and printing establishment, which has an interesting history, never having been told connectedly, now dating back a full round half century with but few, very few, if any, who can say: "I made clippings from the first issue of the 'Bethel Courier,' and have the proof at hand." Bethel then, as I have remarked, more than once, was considerably of a "boom town" and this remark is not confined to assertion only, for the columns of the Courier show the real proof of what I now assert that there was a liberal bestowment, or shower of "Business Cards" and advertisements of traders upon the paper, the depression however in business circles and high price of paper caused by the war of the States obliging the Courier after two years of successful life to suspend publication and transfer the "plant"—a term not then in use for any sort of a productive business—to the Oxford Democrat office, and Bethel was deprived of a luxury in the shape of a local and literary medium combined. But who were the actors in this newspaper drama? Whence did they come—whither did they go?

The editorial chair of the Courier was in the coat-pocket of Dr. Nathaniel T. True, the business office in "Freeman's Hall," up one flight, reached by outside stairs, northerly side of Main, first building from Church street, barn-like in appearance, the lower story serving as a post office room while the Courier lived, and the corner building was not much better in appearance with its stairs upon the outside next to the Courier headquarters.

The following is copied from a statement made in 1872, forty-one years ago.

"BETHEL COURIER.
"This paper was issued at Bethel under the co-partnership of D. Cady and Frank Smith. Its first number bears date, Dec. 17, 1833. After the fourth issue Mr. Cady sold out his interest to Mr. Smith, and a co-partnership was formed by Frank Smith and James Nutting, as proprietors. Most of the editorial matter from its commencement was written by Dr. Nathaniel T. True, though this fact was not generally known until he was publicly announced as editor, July 13, 1853. At this date, Smith sold out to Mr. Nutting, who was sole proprietor till the 4th number of vol. 2, when illness compelling him to seek different employment, he sold out his interest in the paper to J. Alden Smith. A card, job and power press, with new type, was now procured, and the appearance of the paper much improved. Dr. True continued as editor until June 7, 1861, when he retired from the editorial chair. The paper was published by Mr. Smith until July 26, 1861, when the high price of stock compelled him to give up the paper, much to the regret of the citizens of Bethel. Its list of subscribers was united with that of the Oxford Democrat. During the existence of the Courier, Dr. True contributed sixty-seven chapters on the History of Bethel; Dea. Geo. Chapman several chapters upon the early History of Oxford; and Mr. J. G. Rich, of Upton wrote quite a number of interesting and valuable articles on the Wild Animals of Maine. The writer is not aware of more than two files of the paper. Duplicate copies of the History of Bethel in scrapbook style may be seen at Portland in the archives of the Maine Historical Society. With Dr. True it was a labor of love, the entire work bestowed was gratuitous."

JAMES NUTTING.
A James Nutting came from Mass.

REVISION OF MAINE LAWS.

By a resolve passed by the Maine Legislature, in the last session, the laws of Maine will be revised for the first time in ten years. The work, it is believed, will be done by the man as in 1903, John A. Morrill of Auburn. The resolve was introduced by Senator Albert J. Stearns of Oxford county in response to a State-wide demand from lawyers.

Before the statutes of 1903 came in, a period of 20 years had elapsed, too long a time, it was said. The resolve for the revision was put into the Legislature of 1901, was passed and at the Legislature of 1903 the report of the revision was made by Commissioner Morrill. It was then necessary to have the legislature committee on his work report and they did, examining the revision he had done and making corrections to bring the actually new laws into the volume. The work was not completed at that session so an adjournment was taken until September 1 of that year when the Legislature met for one day, approved the work of the special committee and on January 1, 1904, the revised statutes of 1903 went into effect.

Five Revisions.

There have been five different revisions of the public laws of Maine since 1820, namely in 1841, 1857, 1871, 1883 and 1903. A history of these revisions was published as an introduction to the last revision, and is of much interest.

By section six of "An act relating to the Separation of the District of Maine from Massachusetts proper, and forming the same into a separate and independent State," approved by the Governor of Massachusetts, June 19, 1820, it was provided "That all the laws which shall be in force within said district of Maine upon the said fifteenth day of March next (1820) shall still remain and be in force within the proposed State thereof, such parts only excepted as may be inconsistent with the situation and condition of said new State or repugnant to the Constitution thereof." By a resolve of the Legislature of Maine, approved June 15, 1820, a board of jurisprudence was established "to consist of three men learned in the law, who shall be appointed by the Governor with advice of council, and whose duty it shall be to select, arrange and prepare, with suitable indices, a compilation or digest of all the statutes of the colony, province and commonwealth of Massachusetts, now in force in this State and to report the same to the Legislature at the next session for acceptance." On November 20, 1820, Hon. Prentiss Mellen, Chief Justice, Hon. William Pitt Preble and Hon. Nathan Weston, Junior, Justices of the Supreme court, were appointed a board of jurisprudence under that resolve, and the laws of the State of Maine arranged in 179 parts each a proved March 10, 1821, and a repealing act, approved March 21, 1821, were prepared by them.

The First Attempt.

The first revision of the public laws of Maine was authorized by a resolve approved February 23, 1837, authorizing the Governor with the advice and consent of the council to appoint "three able and discreet persons, two of whom at least, shall be learned in the law, to be commissioners, whose duty it shall be faithfully to revise, collate and arrange all the public laws of this State." Under this resolve, on March 3, 1837, Hon. Luther Shapley, of Saco, Francis O. J. Smith, of Portland, and Daniel Williams, of Augusta, were appointed commissioners. On June 20, 1837, Hon. Luther Shapley resigned, and on the twenty-eighth day of the same month, Elwin Smith, of Warren, was appointed in his place. October 2, 1837, Elwin Smith resigned and on the following day, Hon. Samuel E. Smith of Wiscasset, was appointed in his place. On June 8, 1838, as appears by the records of the council, Hon. Prentiss Mellen, of Portland, Elwood Everett, of Brunswick, and William Clark, of Hallowell, were appointed commissioners under a "Resolve providing for a revision of the public laws of Maine, approved February 23, 1837. January 28, 1837, January 19, 1839, Hon. Samuel E. Smith, of Wiscasset, was appointed a commissioner in place of William Clark. The report of the commissioners last appointed was submitted to the Legis-

POMONA AT BETHEL, TUESDAY, MAY 6.

Beautiful weather greeted the grangers of Oxford County on the occasion of their May meeting, Tuesday. The local grange hall was well filled when the company was called to order by the County Master, Mr. J. J. J. The song of welcome by six members of Bethel grange followed.

The business of the session was then rapidly dispensed with. All but three of the eighteen granges belonging to Oxford Pomona were represented as follows—Hebron 2, Paris 7, West Paris 3, Norway 2, Bethel 23, Bear Mountain 10, Waterford 4, Franklin, Woodstock 10, Alder River, E. Bethel 2, Pleasant Valley, W. Bethel 15, Round Mountain, Albany 15, Bear River, Newry 9, Upton 1, Mountain View, Oiled 4, Crooked River, Harrison 2, Frederick Robie, Otisfield 1. Besides these several granges outside Oxford Pomona namely: Sweden, Shebourn, N. H., Andover and Umbagog brought in reports.

The degree of Pomona was then conferred upon the ten candidates whose names are as follows—Ida M. Packard, H. A. Packard, Bethel; Annette S. Howard, Asa J. Howard, Helen A. Howard, Fred E. Howard, West Bethel; Azola Pike, Mrs. Alphens Lavejoy, Norway; Lilla Smith, Hanover; Vera West, Upton. Harris McKean and Mrs. Ida McKean brought demits from Androscoggin Valley Pomona and joined Oxford Pomona.

The County Master then read a letter from State Master Stetson in regard to holding a field meeting. It was then voted to hold a field meeting at the County Fair grounds, Aug. 7. It is expected that the National Lecturer will be present.

Adjourned for dinner. Early in the afternoon a letter was read from State Master Stetson in regard to his working the 6th degree in Oxford County. The object of this is to prepare all who wish to attend the National Grange next November at Manchester, N. H., to take the 7th degree. It was voted that Norway Hall should be the place for conferring the 6th degree and the time for this was left for the State Master to decide. Messrs. Perham, McIntire, and Gates were appointed a committee to find all in subordinate granges who wish to take the degree.

Mr. E. G. Perham then presented the following resolutions which were adopted:

Whereas:—The expense of marketing our fruit crop has become so large that even with fruit selling in the markets for a high price, the returns to the producer are unprofitable, and

Whereas:—The great transportation companies have given notice that still another advance in rates will be made this season, and

Whereas:—Their only excuse for this advance is that the trade will stand it. Therefore:—Be it Resolved that the Oxford County Pomona Grange respectfully requests the Worthy Master and Executive Committee of the Maine State Grange to look into this matter as soon as possible and if the facts warrant, to make a representation to the proper authorities that the trade can not stand it and protest against further advance in rates.

Resolved:—That if facts warrant, we request our Worthy Master and Executive Committee to confer with Executive officers of the other State Granges and of the National Grange to the end that the influence of this great organization may be used for the protection of one of the most vital industries of its members.

Resolved:—That Oxford County Pomona Grange request the other Pomona Granges in the State to take action in this matter.

Resolved:—That E. E. Cummings be a committee from this Pomona to see that these resolutions are carried into effect.

Then followed the program planned for the afternoon.

Resolution was announced as the place closed in form.

GREAT AND GRACIOUS GIFT TO BETHEL.

Sometimes, in "our dull road, we see a shining track" and we look up from our way to find the sky bluer than we thought, and the stars not nearly as far away as they had seemed. It is always a nearness to humanity that gives us this lasting thrill, for it can only come by the personal touch of lives upon a higher level than the common, beaten, dust-clouded highways of human selfishness. Then we see our ideals realized, and with gladness of soul look up and are made better men and better women, with a new reverence for our fellow-beings.

When we stood, as a sorrowful community, and watched Bethel's old hostility consumed in flames, and the century old elms withering and twisting in fiery torment, and when, for months, the depressing pile of ruins lay before us with no definite plans for a reconstructed building—just when the lowest level was reached, there came an arrow of light flashing through the darkness, others followed, until five golden messengers of hope shot above the ruins of the old house.

Before one could readjust himself to this most unusual situation, an old Colonial Inn was beautifully built, and equipped with every possible convenience that a modern hotel could offer. There is a lounge to welcome the surprised traveler, a stately music room to enchant him, dining-rooms, public and private, to attract him, a billiard room to amuse, views to stimulate him to make a series of discoveries into an unknown land of beauty in every direction.

All this has come through the generous thought of a group of men who, having found a true Bethel for themselves or their loved ones, like Jacob of old—saw white-winged angels climbing a ladder, while their ladder had for its rungs, generosity, gratitude, and usefulness—their angels were beneficent thoughts for the good of others.

Mr. Horace Sears, Mr. Robt. Winsor, Mr. Chas. Hubbard, of Boston, Mr. Wm. Bingham and Mr. Wm. Upson, of Cleveland, have raised this building from the ashes of a past good, grown inadequate, and to their honor have given one-half its cost as a free-will offering.

Messrs. Bingham and Upson assume the further financial obligations and responsibilities connected with the Bethel Inn. The wide-spread reputation for generosity, and the dignity of bearing for good in this village raises the warmest enthusiasm in the hearts of many who have learned not only to respect but to feel a sincere affection for these men who have made our village the happier and the better by their presence among us. What great or gift can come to a community than principles put into action?

The older group of citizens, who originally directed this great generosity, now cordially see their mantle descend upon the broad shoulders of these younger men, giving to them the trust they so well deserve, that the character of the Bethel Inn shall maintain the ideals for which it was originally planned.

Work is going on briskly under the new regime, and ere long Bethel will be proud of the most perfectly constructed and picturesque "billiard place" between Poland Springs and Bretton Woods.

RECEPTION AT BETHEL.

Thursday evening the Ladies' All of the Methodist church invited the church and parish and a few neighbors and friends to a reception tendered to their new pastor and family. Mrs. E. C. Farrington, Mr. and Mrs. N. R. Spring, Mr. H. F. Fickett and Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Wheeler were in the receiving line with Rev. and Mrs. T. C. Chapman.

After all had greeted the pastor and wife an hour of sociability was enjoyed meeting old friends and becoming acquainted with new ones in a pleasant informal way which gave an atmosphere of real neighborliness.

Mr. N. R. Springer extended a very warm welcome on behalf of the church and parish. Rev. W. C. Fortis of the Congregational church and Rev. J. H. Little of the Universalist church gave words of warm welcome on behalf of the churches and parishes they severally represent. Rev. Mr. Chapman responded in a most felicitous speech which bespoke for him, not only a most successful pastorate, but also a desirable place in the whole community.

ENTERTAINMENT AT BETHEL, MAY 1st.

The entertainment given by the ladies of the Universalist church was a successful affair in spite of the difficulties under which it was given. The piano solos by Miss Doris Frost and Miss Muriel Park had to be omitted, as did also the Folk Song in costume by Miss Agnes Hutchins and Mr. Guy Kendall. The extra number by Herrick's orchestra was greatly appreciated, the orchestra being augmented by Mrs. Al. Herrick and Mr. Knapp of Norway. The piano solo by Miss Ernestine Philbrook and the vocal solo by Miss Mona Martyn were a pleasure to the audience.

It is not often the inner workings of any society are made public and "The Church Fair" might have been an answer to Robbie Burns' plea, for it certainly showed many of us "as others see us." All types of village society were portrayed from the energetic Mrs. Roberts who "planned to be president," to the bride whose chief regret was that she had never learned cooking with all her other accomplishments acquired before she was married.

Mrs. H. D. Hastings was capital as the good natured inquisitive old lady who was willing everybody should know her affairs and wanted to know about all her neighbors' to the discomfort of the dignified president. The gracious presence of Mrs. S. Howe as the person's wife was another loss credited to the meales and a substitute had to be found for her part. Mrs. Brown who had "the interest of the church at heart" tried her best to smooth the tangled threads and her something remark to the sensitive Mrs. Ridgely on the entertainment committee, "why, I think you do remarkably well, considering the material you have to work with,"—brings home to our minds the thought if we all do our best with our own material there would be more harmony.

ty as a citizen of Bethel—whose people extend a welcome to himself and wife and two sons.

It was much regretted that illness detained Rev. B. F. Fickett, former pastor, but all were assured of his interest and good wishes for the church whose care he gives into the hands of another.

Dainty refreshments were served, and it was a pleasant thought of the Ladies' Aid to give the people an opportunity to meet Rev. Mr. Chapman and family, in such an informal enjoyable gathering.

PLEASANT BIRTHDAY.

Remembering that May fifth was the birthday anniversary of Mrs. L. T. Barker, a few neighbors called in to extend congratulations and good wishes. Mrs. Barker was the recipient of a birthday cake, accompanied with an original poem, from Bethel's gifted poetess, also a birthday cake from a neighbor; among other gifts which testified to the kindly thought of friends were post card greetings, confectionery and lovely pinka. After a pleasant chat the hostess shared her dainty refreshments with her friends and many happy returns of the anniversary were mingled with the good nights.

The following is the poem:

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS.
I count you very fortunate
To have been born this day,
For no one can be reckoned old
By the calendar of May.

Though you should live a hundred years,

You'll still be young, forsooth;
Since there is only just one age
In May—and that is youth.

Even the everlasting hills,
Dearer than was from above
Of May's sweet light, are clothed again
In her transforming green;

And thus become as young and fair
As when creation's morning
Flooded the east, and all the world
In those glad rays was born.

Ah, and there's nothing old in May—
Nothing but sorrow and sin;
So we will shut the sorrow out,
And let the gladness in.

For sorrow ever must give place
To love and hope and life,
The precious springtime of the year
When joyfulness is rife.

So if this old world can be young
Each May,—why then, in truth,
We too are young! Accept this toast:
"To cheer immortal youth!"

A WORD FROM MRS. CLARE H. HARVEY.

Bethel people will be glad to hear of the good work that Mrs. Harvey is doing as President of the Beth Williams National W. R. C.

To one of her friends in Bethel she writes:

"Just at the present time I am busily engaged in shipping supplies to the flood sufferers in Ohio. Have solicited and shipped $708.70 worth and still have a quantity of things to get together and pack. Have sent dozens of ladies' trimmed hats and that is what I am busied at just at the present time. Trimmed all day Patriot's Day and every evening for some time, shipping as fast as I get a dozen or so done."

"Have sent some excellent things, much better than I ever hope to have, and only hope they fell into the hands of people who will appreciate them. Reservations have been estimated at $200,000."

Save Sale prices or the total would reach well up toward the $1,000 mark."

POOR OLD DAD.

You can scarce pick up a paper And its "Poor's Corner" greet, Except you'll see a pretty poem About the mother, saintly, sweet, But you'll have a time of searching Your eyes will be aching bad, Ere you'll overtake a poem At this time for poor old dad.

No, it isn't willful in them, Them that write of mother dear, That there is never notice taken Of her old man, sitting near. No, it's never meant to slight him, But it looks a little sad; All the bouquets made for mother And not a bloom for poor old dad.

True, our mother watched above us Till her dear old eyes would ache, But old dad he bumped to feed us Till his back would nearly break. Mother crooned above the cradle, Gave devotion, all she had, Still that was not any circus At this time for poor old dad.

Do not take one line from mother When you write the soul sweet song, But if there is a word for father Now and then it can't be wrong. Poor old soul, he's gray and wrinkled, And I know it would make him glad If while you are praising mother, Something is said for poor old dad.

—Edith Swanson.

DONT'S FOR MOTHERS.

A gospel of "don'ts" is generally conceded to be an unhealthy mental diet to bring up children on, but there is little doubt that a judicious amount administered to parents would be salutary. Mrs. Gabrielle E. Jackson is plainly of this opinion, for she has written a neat little volume, entitled "Don'ts for Mothers" which aims to point out some of the stumbling blocks over which the cradle rockers of the world sometimes trip their toes, trip or fall flat.

Here are some of the don'ts selected at random:

Don't expect the average nurse-maid to give the intelligent attention you would yourself give; had she your brains she would not be a nursemaid.

Don't fail to make your hay in these precious receptive days. The world lies beyond.

Don't say, "Oh, do be quiet!" or "Do sit still!" Remember that bones and muscles must develop. Make a place for them to do so. This is your duty.

Don't permit a fear to be implanted in your child.

Don't forget that "What" and "Why" are the best manifestations of a normal brain. Take time and pains to make it grow wisely.

Don't take your small child shopping.

Don't give your maid a chance to say, "You just got mad yourself; so now!"

Don't, as you value your motherhood, "scold."

Don't fail to give the reason why every time you give a command. You want the obedience of an intelligent, reasoning being, not that of an automaton.

Don't let your child suspect that the world can hold a more delightful companion than "mother," if you would keep "an anchor to windward."

Don't forget that the mother who can enter all her children's pleasures has discovered a marvelous "youth restorer."

Don't bring up your children on a steady diet of "Don'ts," miserable, prickly little word that it is, and sure to rub the wrong way.

Don't correct your child in the presence of others. You yourself would find this very hard to break, so why regard this little being as less sensitive?

Don't overlook an untruth, yet weigh carefully between untruthfulness and a vivid imagination. It is often a hair-splitting task, but no mistake should be made.

Don't forget that in assisting "mother" into the car, in walking upon the outer edge of the sidewalk, in picking up the handkerchief she has let drop, your little lad is learning the true gentleman.

Don't fail to listen attentively and

Worms in Children.

By Dr. True

If mothers only knew the tortures the little ones may suffer from worms! Thousands of children have stomach worms or pin worms and their parents do not know it. They doctor them for other ailments.

Signs of worms are:

Indigestion, with a variable appetite; abnormal craving for sweets; nausea and vomiting; swollen upper lip; sour tongue; offensive breath; hard and full belly with occasional griping and pains about the navel; face at one time flushed, then pale and in a few cases the face takes on a dull leaden hue. Eyes heavy and dull, twitching eyelids; itching of the nose; itching of the rectum; short, dry cough; grinding of the teeth; little red points sticking out on tongue; staring during sleep; slow fever; pulse quickened and irregular; body maybe hot and often, in children, convulsions.

Don't delay! Delays are dangerous. Give the children at once some of Dr. True's Elixir. Directions on the bottle. Sold by all dealers at 35c, 50c and $1.00. Thousands of grateful mothers have given my Dr. True's Elixir to sick children and restored them to health.

patiently to all the little trials which come into the lives of these small people. Help adjust them, and remember that at six they are as great in proportion as those which daily come into your own life.

Don't forget that sympathy for your children's "fads and fancies" draws you near to them.

Don't offer bribes as an inducement to good behavior.

Don't forget that "almost fourteen" are crucial years in the lives of your son and daughter.

Don't fail to insist, while your children are still schoolboys and schoolgirls, upon orderly habits in the home, and certain hours for certain duties. As a result of this method the good housewife and thoughtful husband may bloom forth later.

Don't fail to make your smile your children's last memory as they depart for school. A rattled spirit as a send off puts the time out of joint for the entire day.

Don't treat your son and daughter at twenty as you would have treated them at twelve. Remember that they are now a man and a woman.

Don't forget that you are, or ought to be, your children's ideal of all that is perfection, and that it is your duty to live up to their ideals in every possible way. Not an easy task, but wonderfully inspiring.—Exchange.

A Traveling Man Cured

P. B. Conterman, a traveling man of Topeka, Mo., writes: "Twelve years ago I was a great sufferer from stomach troubles. I tried nearly every medicine I could hear of, among them I used fifteen bottles of one popular preparation, but never found anything that did me any permanent good until I took Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, which have effected a permanent cure. I have been five years since I took these tablets and I have had no more stomach trouble during that time. I have recommended Chamberlain's Tablets to a great many sufferers with stomach troubles and traveling salesmen, and have met many of the buyers of the road that are afflicted with disorders of the stomach as they have to deal with all kinds of half-cooked grub at the different country hotels, which is one cause of this dreadful disease."

When the stomach is so sore that food is rejected, pour it with a damp flannel dipped in garden soil.

A. I. Gray of North Newport recently cut a primeval pine which stood solitary as compared to trees of the same size, which reached over 2100 feet. The first cut of the log 13 feet in length scaled 551 feet. In falling, the tree was broken, which lessened the amount of the lumber a little. In the main base of H. F. Topper, which was built in 1891 and was the second frame house built in North Newport, in the main section there are heads three feet wide of clear pine, and even in the attic floor the same wide heads are used, showing how common they must have been at that time.

The body of the heroine of Whitier's famous poem, "Barbara Frietsch," which has rested in the old Reformed graveyard in Frederick, Md., since 1862, was removed to a vault in Mount Olivet cemetery, May 1, where it is to be reinterred beside that of her husband. The Barbara Frietsch memorial association is raising funds for erecting a memorial to her memory. It is expected that the memorial will be completed some time next autumn.

The last block industry, which a quarter of a century ago was an important one in Maine, has dwindled down until at present little is known about it. The decrease is due to market conditions which make Maine competition impossible. Until a few years ago camps of last block makers were scattered all along the northern border of Maine. While a few blocks were shipped from Maine the past winter, the quantity was small compared with years in the past. The blocks are fashioned into bats on which staves are made. Maple trees are cut into short lengths, after which men armed with short axes which resemble a meat cleaver form them into a rough shape of a bat. Then they are thrown into a pile to dry in the open air. Westerners are able to furnish blocks at a much cheaper figure than the Maine dealers can, with the result that now nearly all the bats are made from western maple trees.

Years of silence so that have been in the Alps have been known to scientists for a long time. Some years ago a committee conducted a series of experiments in the English Channel with the latest and most earplugging science, whistles and buoys they could procure. It was found that sometimes to the clearest and quietest day a sound was unaccountably inaudible at a short distance. This demonstrated conclusively the existence of soundless zones and incidentally suggested an explanation of certain ocean disasters.

George Teasdale, who claimed the distinction of having blown the first dynamite light bulb, died April 28 in Haverhill, Mass. Teasdale was 70 years old and had been a glassblower since he was 15. "He and Goebel planned it and father made the straight tube about five inches long with a platform where the bulb was to be. The air was exhausted and the powder sealed up the ends. Father did not realize the value of the invention. He turned his sights away to other and discarded

New and strange Indian names are continually being added to the Government pay rolls. The Treasury Department has sent out warrants drawn to the order of the following as allottees of lands in the West: Mary Hall Stomach, John Brings Home the Baby, George Circle Pool, Kettle Woman, Susan Howling Horse, She Paints Her Shoes, Helen Crows, Lake, Water, and Edward Useful Heart. Indian nomenclature has full play on this pay roll, the most interesting in the files of the Government.

The first national exposition for American Indians will be held at Denver in 1915 at the same time as the Panama exposition, and visitors who are on their way to San Francisco will do well to shape their course to provide for a stop at Denver. An Indian exposition needs plenty of room for a proper setting, and a tract nearly 12 miles square has been selected between Denver and the mountains. It is expected that a $2,000,000 fund will be raised in the city, and it is hoped that every tribe which has one or more survivors in the United States will be represented. The intention is to show all the changes, good or bad, the Indian has gone through since the advent of the white man, and if faithfully carried out it should be a great moral lesson.

Farmers in York county say that they never before had such a hard time to get farm help as they are now having. They say the same state of affairs exists all over Maine. For years the majority of young men raised on the farms have been going to the cities. Many of the men who come along and ask for work are little more than tramps. Some of them will work only when they feel like it, and others are very inefficient, even if they are willing. Meanwhile, the native born (a) who remain on the farm are few and far between.

What the people think of closing the postoffices on Sundays was expressed at the national capital Wednesday, through the medium of the most voluminous petition ever received at the postoffice department. The petition weighed nearly 52 pounds, and was so bulky that it had to be sent by express. Eight governors—not the famous eight of last year's campaign—were among the tens of thousands who signed the protest. It was urged by the petitioners, "in behalf of the transient population of the United States, commercial travelers, those engaged in theatrical pursuits and others, whose business is to make it imperative for them to travel, that special provisions be made by the postoffice department for the delivery of mail on Sunday."

Mrs. Roxana Burdham of Haverhill, Mass., the eldest woman in Maine, and perhaps in New England, was 93 years old April 10. They were born in Maine and have always lived in the State. Nearly all their lives they have been within a few miles of each other. Until recently both twins have enjoyed good health. Mrs. Burdham has assisted in the housework all winter, but the health of Mrs. Hall has been poor the past winter.

During the latter part of 1912 the cost of living in the United States was higher than at any other time during the past 25 years. The Bureau of Labor Statistics has just issued a report on retail prices from 1890 to 1912. The lowest year was reached in each of the geographical divisions and in the United States as a whole in 1896. From that date to 1912 the total increase in the cost of living per year for a working man's family is approximately 100 per cent.

vision was North Atlantic, $166; South Atlantic, $152; North Central, $157; South Central, $156; and Western, $152. The approximate cost of a year's food supply for an average working man's family at average prices of each year by geographical divisions for 1890, 1896 (the low year) and 1912 was:

Divisions	1890	1896	1912
North Atlantic	$319	$309	$469
South Atlantic	290	276	463
North Central	260	255	441
South Central	274	265	417
Western	369	277	420

Instructions not to deliver at destination any shipments of intoxicating liquors which they have reason to believe or suspect are intended for illegal sale have been received by a score of agents at the more important points on the Maine Central Railroad. They are also instructed not to accept such shipments for transportation. Orders will be issued later to all agents for a strict observance of the provisions of the Webb law prohibiting the transportation of liquors into prohibition states for illegal sale.

"EAT MORE MUTTON AND LESS BEEF."

Packers Also Urge Farmers to Raise More Cattle, Stop Killing Calves.

Swift & Co., acting, it is said, for all the packers, have issued a pamphlet calling upon the people to stop eating beef and turn to mutton. Here is the warning:

Eat more lamb and mutton and less beef.

Raise more cattle on the farms.

Stop the useless and wholly indefensible slaughter of calves.

This corporation can see nothing ahead but higher beef unless the things they ask the people to do are done.

According to the figures in the Swift pamphlet, there was a decrease in 1912 of 500,000 cattle brought to market as compared to 1911. There was a decrease of eighteen pounds per head in the cattle marketed and a total decrease of 204,000,000 lbs.

POPULATION AND CATTLE.

The pamphlet states that the increase in population in the United States in the last ten years has been approximately 16,500,000 persons. The decrease in the number of cattle in the country in that same time has been 7,468,000.

"From this," says the Swift pamphlet, "it is evident that the consumer, if he does not wish meat values to mount still higher, must advocate increased production in cattle."

The United States, says the pamphlet, is the greatest meat consuming country in the world. The number of calves slaughtered for food has increased 100 per cent. to the last ten years. The statement is made that on some nation wide laws are passed—laws similar to those now in force in South Africa—prohibiting the slaughter of calves, the price of beef in the United States is going higher.

PACKERS' PROFIT ON BEEF.

The pamphlet says that on the ten pound roast of beef the homeholder buys for his table the packers' profit is two cents. This one-fifth of a cent a pound is the profit from tanning, dressing, refrigerating, shipping and selling in a ten-pound roast of beef.

The sales of a corporation for the 200 working days in a year averaged about $1,000,000 a day, according to the pamphlet. After it is shown what the purchasing power of $1 for mutton is in Chicago. The following figures are given:

Beef steak, 5 to 10 pounds; mutton, 10 to 15 pounds; beef round, 10 to 15 pounds; mutton and quarter, 10 pounds; beef steak, 10 pounds; mutton fore quarter, 10 pounds.

STATE OF MAINE.

By the Governor.

A PROCLAMATION.

In compliance with a recent and well established custom, based upon a modern statute of the State founded in a feeling of appreciation of the return of spring, I do hereby appoint Friday, the sixteenth day of May, as

and recommend that it be observed by the people of the State, especially by all teachers and students in our common schools and other institutions of learning; and by our benevolent and charitable institutions; and by the family in the home, as a day for the planting of trees, shrubs and vines, the setting out of flowers, and the sowing of seeds, for the adornment and beauty of the State, thus making it more attractive to all our people.

As nature assumes new life and beauty, so let our people assume new life and hope with an enthusiasm which comes with the proper observance of this day by such appropriate exercises as seem fitting with the return of spring.

Make it a day particularly to be remembered by the boys and the girls.

GIVEN at the Executive Chamber at Augusta, this first day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and thirty-seventh.

WILLIAM T. HAINES.

By the Governor:

J. E. ALEXANDER,
Secretary of State.

KNOW HIS BUSINESS.

The new minister in a Georgia church was delivering his first sermon. The negro janitor was a critical listener from a back corner of the church. The minister's sermon was eloquent, and his prayers seemed to cover the whole category of human wants.

After the services one of the deacons asked the old negro what he thought of the new minister.

"Don't you think he offers up a good prayer, Jos?"

"Ah most certainly does, boss. Why, dat man axed de Lord fo' things dat de older preacher didn't even know he had!"—Christian Herald.

THE CHEMICAL ANALYSIS OF SOILS.

Orono, May 2, 1913.

Since crops derive so large a proportion of their food from the soil, it is quite natural that we should come to think of the chemical composition of the soil as the correct measure of its fertility. The university is frequently asked to make soil analyses, and for some reason requests of this nature have been unusually numerous during the present spring. In many instances samples of soil are forwarded, and specific information is asked for, the writer stating perhaps that he grows potatoes last season, and wishes to sow oats this spring. The analyses in such cases is supposed to be a trustworthy guide in the selection of a fertilizer. In other cases the writer merely states that the soil in question failed to give good returns last season, and he looks for an analysis to suggest a remedy.

A great many soil analyses have been made, and the published results deserves close study. One of the most interesting facts which such investigations have brought to light is that nearly every soil, even those incapable of producing good crops, contain a store of plant food far in excess of the needs of the very crops they fail to produce. A plant is able to take its food from the soil only in soluble forms, while by far the greater part of the elements needed by crops exist in the soil in the form of insoluble compounds, which are consequently not available. A chemical analysis simply shows that they are there. Up to the present time the chemist has not devised a reliable method by which he can measure the availability of these materials to the plant. Even if he succeeded in determining the availability for a certain crop, he would have made but little progress, since he might find it necessary to establish a different standard for every other crop. The roots of plants take an active part in dissolving plant food, and no two kinds of plants possess this power in the same degree.

The importance of the quality which we call "availability" may be illustrated thus: Soils frequently carry over one thousand pounds of phosphoric acid in the upper six or seven inches of an acre, yet fail to produce good crops for want of this very compound. Supposing now, we add to such soil a fertilizer carrying 10 per cent. available phosphoric acid, applying it at the rate of one thousand pounds to the acre, and working it into the soil to the depth of seven inches. The half ton of fertilizer carried one hundred pounds of available phosphoric acid, which has become mixed with two millions pounds of earth. A little calculation will show that we have added phosphoric acid to the extent of one half of one hundredth of one per cent. If such a soil were analyzed before and after such an application, an ordinary chemical analysis would not detect the difference. Yet in spite of the fact that the soil may have already contained ten or twenty times this amount, the crop knows the difference.

There is but one way to learn the fertilizer requirements of the soil, and that is by close observation and careful experimentation on the part of the man who tills the soil. If the application of potash salts alone produces satisfactory results, nitrogen and phosphoric acid should not be used. The indiscriminate use of a "complete fertilizer" is fairly certain to increase the crop, but the practice is in many cases a wasteful one. The University holds itself ready to aid the farmer in every way within its power, but for the reason stated it cannot undertake soil analyses.

Professor of Agricultural Chemistry.

Keep the Balance Up.

It has been truthfully said that any disturbance of the even balance of health causes serious trouble. Nobody can be too careful to keep this balance up. When people begin to lose appetite, or to get tired easily, the least imprudence brings on sickness, weakness, or debility. The system needs a tonic, craves it, and should not be denied it; and the best tonic of which we have any knowledge is Hood's Sarsaparilla. What this medicine has done in keeping healthy people healthy, in keeping up the even balance of health, gives it the same distinction as a preventive that it enjoys as a cure. Its early use has illustrated the wisdom of the old saying that a stitch in time saves nine. Take Hood's for appetite, strength, and endurance.

Attacks of Indigestion

"I believe Chamberlain's Tablets have saved my life," writes Mrs. Maggie Coll, Golden City, Mo. "I had pains in my stomach so bad I thought I could not live. Our doctor said it was indigestion of the stomach. I would go to bed perfectly well and wake up in the night as bad as I could be and live. Our doctor said it would do no good to give medicine internally. He had to inject medicine in my arm. Since taking Chamberlain's Tablets I can eat anything I want without hurting me." This form of indigestion is extremely painful and often dangerous. By taking Chamberlain's Tablets after eating, and especially when you have fullness and weight in the stomach after eating, the disease may be warded off and avoided. Chamberlain's Tablets not only aid digestion, but strengthen and invigorate the stomach.

RUMFORD.

Mrs. Louise Baker and children of New York are spending a few weeks with the Martins at Rumford Point.

A number of unruly boys were in court Monday morning before Judge McCarthy for disorderly conduct around the library. The judge gave them a severe talking to and said that he would not give them a court record this time, but if there was any more complaints from them in the future that they would be severely dealt with.

The sale held by the Betsy Ross Club and the Ladies' Aid of the Universalist church was very successful. The ladies held forth in the store formerly occupied by M. Marx as a clothing store and served refreshments in the afternoon and a supper at night. Many pretty fancy articles were displayed at this time and sold rapidly.

On Tuesday of next week the May term of the Supreme Judicial Court will be held in the Business Men's Club rooms in the Strathglass building.

We wish to correct a statement made in this paper last week which stated that the vaudeville at Cheney Opera House would finish in April. Mr. Hase, the manager, informs us that vaudeville will be continued all through May. By many the one presented the latter part of last week was considered the best of the season.

Riply Knox of Peru was in court Monday morning for assaulting an officer in his town, who attempted to arrest his son, Walter Knox, for intoxication. Mr. Childs, the officer, came to arrest young Knox, and in attempting to get him the two became mixed up in a scarp and rolled around on the barn floor. The older man seeing the affair, decided to take a hand in it and proceeded to kick the officer. Judge McCarthy after hearing the case fined Walter Knox for intoxication ten dollars and costs which amounted to twenty-five dollars, and the elder Knox ten dollars and costs and thirty days in jail. Walter Knox paid his fine and was discharged. Riply Knox took an appeal.

A social was held at the Baptist church on Tuesday evening by the young people of that society, at which many new and interesting games were played and several new features introduced, which made the occasion a very pleasant one.

St. Margaret's Guild was entertained by Mrs. Walter Morse on Franklin street Tuesday afternoon. The ladies of the Guild are working on fancy articles which are to be displayed at a sale to be given soon.

Mrs. A. K. Martin returned Saturday night from Boston, where she has been spending the last month with relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Andrews and Harold Andrews of Portland were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Andrews last week.

Miss Laura McMennamin left Monday for several weeks' visit in Portland with friends. Upon her return Miss McMennamin will be employed in the Rumford Falls Trust Co., for the summer season.

On Friday evening the Cosmos Club will have its usual meeting at Hotel Rumford, and Prof. B. D. Chason will speak on "The value of a business education."

Considerable excitement was manifested last week on account of a report circulated around town that the house belonging to Paul Ross, located on the corner of Main Ave. and Peabody street, was haunted and that there was a ghost that came each night and whistled all sorts of tunes. The family living in the house were awakened one night by this sound coming from around the sink pipes. The story was told by several people and it was soon rife among the townspeople and Friday evening several hundred people were at the house to see if they could hear or see this strange ghost. It was finally necessary for the police to take a hand in the game and keep the people from forcibly entering. After several nights of this mysterious whistling it was found that the lady living upstairs possessed some ventriloquist powers and had been whistling to her child and so the ghost was a very material being instead of spiritual.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church will hold a sale of fancy needlework in the basement of the E. K. Day Co.'s store on Saturday, May 10th.

Mrs. R. T. Parker is entertaining her sister, Mrs. Abbott, of Hyde Park, Mass.

Miss Caroline Kenniston and Miss Lillian Rollins entertained the Betsy Ross Club on Monday evening at the church parlor.

Jas. McGregor has got a crew of thirty or forty men on Zircan hard at work clearing the site for the Rumford and Mexico Water District's new dam.

Camps have been built and the men will remain at this place all summer until the entire work is completed.

Major Theodore Hawley was in New York last week to attend the funeral of David Fletcher, the secretary and a director of the Continental Paper Bag Co.

The court reception and ball has been cancelled as the military ball is to be held on that night. The militia boys will send invitations to all of the lawyers and court officials and endeavor to make the affair more brilliant than any previous ones.

The Rumford friends of Mr. Wm. Gregor will be pleased to learn that he has been promoted from superintendent to manager of the Price Bros. big paper mill at Kenogami.

The Imperial Photo Company which has been located on Canal street will move to Wilton on Tuesday, May 13th, so this week is the last chance for penny photos.

The Firemen's Hall which was held on Tuesday evening at the Cheney Opera House was a grand success. The hall was attractively decorated with palms and other floral decorations. The music furnished by the Symphony Orchestra was splendid and the soloists, Mrs. Smith and Mr. Wang, were much appreciated. The electrical effects kindly loaned by the Rumford Falls Light Co. made the hall very picturesque, and all things considered this may be considered the most brilliant affair ever given by the fire ladies.

IGNORANCE.

Marian came to the breakfast table late, and was scolded by the reproachful eyes of her mother.

THE FRESH AIR CURE

Is Sound and Logical.

Both by day and by night it is necessary to have enough oxygen from fresh air to keep the blood pure and in best condition to repair waste and so maintain life. If confined by day, sleep in the open air at night, well protected of course by suitable clothing. If the liver or bowels become sluggish take a proper dose of "L. P." Atwood's Medicine occasionally to prevent congestion. It is a safe old family remedy.

"I have used 'L. P.' Atwood's Medicine with most excellent results and do most heartily recommend them. I tell you that the 'L. P.' Atwood's Medicine is very beneficial in cases of Dyspepsia, Headache, and vomiting."

HEART THRILLING GEMS.

"THE LITTLE BROWN COT ON THE HILL."

Long ago in that little brown cot I was born,
And there passed all my childhood
days;
On its porch I would sit from the dawn
of the morn,
Till the close of the long Summer
day.

Or I'd play in the cool shady wood that was near,
And my voice would ring merry and
shrill;
Till fatigued I'd return to my mother
so dear,
In the little brown cot on the hill.

It was lonely and old, and in Winter
was drear,
And the winds could assail it at will;
Yet there's nothing on earth to my heart so dear,
As that little brown cot on the hill.

THE DYING GIRL.

Why does my mother stand away
To hide her struggling tears?
Her trembling touch betrays uncheck'd
The secret of her fears;
My father gazes on my face
With yearning, earnest eyes;
And yet there's none among them all
To tell me I must die!

My little sisters press around
My sleepless couch, and bring
With eager hands, their garden gift,
The first sweet buds of spring;
I wish they'd lay me where those flowers
Might lure them to my bed,
When other springs and summers
bloom,
And I am with the dead.

The sunshine quivers on my cheek,
Glistening and gay and fair,
As if it knew my hand too weak
To shade me from its glare!
How soon 'twill fall unheeded on
This death-dew'd glassy eye!
Why do they fear to tell me so?
I know that I must die.

The summer winds breathe softly
O'er my
My lone, still, dreary room;
A loneliness and a stiller one
Awaits me in the tomb!
But no soft breeze will whisper there,
No mother hold my head;
It is a fearful thing to be
A dweller with the dead!

Ever after e'en the sun prolongs
His hour of parting light,
And seems to make my farwell hours
Too fair, too heavenly bright!
I know the loveliness of earth,
I love the evening sky;
And yet I should not murmur if
They told me I must die.

My playmates turn aside their heads
When parting with me now;
The nurse that tended me a babe,
Now soothes my aching brow.
Ah, why are those sweet cradle hours
Of joy and fondling dead?
Not o'er my parents' knees now
Could I keep me from the dead.

Our pastor kneels beside me oft,
And talks to me of Heaven;
But with a hollow vision still
My soul in dreams hath striven.
I've seen a beaming hand that called
My faltering steps on high;
I've heard a voice that trumpet-tongued.

Bids me prepare to die.

"PRAYER AND POTATOES."
An old lady sat in her armchair,
With a grumbling change and discolored face.

And hunger was her feature;
For days and for weeks her only fare,
As she sat there in her old armchair
Had been potatoes.

But how they were gone; of that we knew.
Not one was left for the old lady's food.
Of these potatoes.

And she sighed and said, "What shall
I do?
Where shall I send and to whom shall
I go
For these potatoes?"

And she thought of the deacon, over
the way,
The deacon so ready to worship and
pray.

Where rather was full of potatoes;
And she said: "I will send for the deacon to come;
He'll not mind much to give me some of such a store of potatoes."

And the deacon came over as fast as he could.
Thinking to do the old lady some good,

But never for once of potatoes.
He asked her at once what was her chief want,
And she, simple soul, expecting a grant,
Immediately answered, "potatoes!"

But the deacon's religion didn't line
that way,
He was more accustomed to preach and
pray
Than to give his hoarded potatoes.
So, not hearing, of course, what the old lady said,

He rose to pray, with uncovered head,
But she only thought of potatoes.
He prayed for patience, and wisdom,
and grace,
But when he prayed, "Lord, give her peace,"
She audibly sighed "potatoes!"
And at the end of each prayer which he said,

He heard, or thought that he heard, in its stead
That same request for potatoes.
The deacon was troubled, knew not what to do;
"Twas very embarrassing to have her set so
About those "carnal potatoes,"
So, ending his prayer, he started for home,
But as the door closed behind him he heard a deep groan,
"Oh, give to the hungry potatoes!"

And that groan followed him all the way home,
In the midst of the night it haunted
his room,
"Oh, give to the hungry potatoes!"
He could bear it no longer—arose and dressed,
From his well-filled cellar taking in haste
A bag of his best potatoes.

Again he went to the widow's low hut,
Her sleepless eyes she had not shut,
But there she sat in that old armchair,
With the same wan features, the same sad air,
And entering in he poured on the floor
A bushel or more from his goodly store
Of choicest potatoes.

The widow's heart leaped up for joy,
Her face was haggard and wan no
more,
"Now," said the deacon, "shall we
pray?"
"Yes," said the widow, "now you may,"

And he knelt him down on the sand-
ed floor,
Where he had poured his goodly store,
And such a prayer the deacon prayed
As never before his lips essayed.
No longer embarrassed, but free and bold,

He poured out the voice of a liberal soul,
And the widow responded aloud
"Amen!"

But said no more of potatoes.
And would you hear this simple tale,
Pray for the poor, and praying, "prevail,"
Then prepare your prayer with alms and good deeds.

Search out the poor, their wants and needs;
Pray for peace and grace and spiritual help.

For wisdom and guidance, for all these are good,
But don't forget the potatoes.

For example, a $15 suit of ordinary clothes bears little or no

The proof is in the KIRSCHBAUM Guaranty, the broad-

MAINE'S DANDELIONS.

The Crop Worth $100,000 Yearly. In about two weeks Maine dandelion pickers will begin the labor of harvesting the annual green crop of the State.

No effort has ever been made by the department of labor of the State to ascertain correct figures as to the value of this product to the people of Maine. If these figures could be gotten together it would be astonishing to see the total figure.

By those who have made some observations it is estimated that the revenue to the diggers of greens will reach a total of $100,000. This estimate includes the boys and girls who every spring make a business of digging dandelions and peddling them from house to house in cities, towns and larger villages of the State.

They receive an average of 15 cents for what is known as a 10-quart ball of greens. A smart boy or girl will easily dig three of these balls outside of school hours each day and will find no difficulty in disposing of them all. On top of these figures are those people in the country who make a business of supplying the city and large town markets with greens during the season. They bring the greens into town by the barrel. Usually it is the women folk and children who do the digging and amounts which they receive for their work reach into large sums.

Others who dig greens in country and suburban sections of the State make no pretense of selling down to the markets. They put them down just as they put down strawberries. Different women have different ways. Probably the most common way throughout the State of Maine is that known as salting them. A half barrel is used. This is usually the kind such as pickles come in.

First the barrel is carefully washed out. The dandelions are cleaned, just as though they were to be cooked for the table. Then there is a heavy layer placed in the bottom of the barrel. This is covered with salt and followed by another layer of greens and more salt, and so on until the barrel is filled. A weight is placed on top of the greens and a little water put in so that a pickle will form. By this means the greens may be kept indefinitely. Others prefer to partially cook the dandelions and while they are hot place them, with some of the liquor in which they are cooked, in ordinary preserving jars. Greens so put up will keep indefinitely unless the jar be opened. Others simply dry the dandelions and keep them until wanted in the winter. This is the most satisfactory method of all.

Greens so put down sell for a good price. They are superior to the ordinary canned variety purchased in the stores. A considerable quantity of dandelions is raised in Maine each year by the regular pickers and the diggers for these factories earn good pay.

Could the money value of the greens which are dug each year in Maine for the home consumption by the persons picking them be ascertained there is little doubt but what the estimate of $100,000 as the total value of this State crop would be much too small.

MAINE GETTYSBURG PARTY.

Adjutant General Has Practically Completed List from This State.

A general canvass of the survivors in Maine of the battle of Gettysburg, just completed by Adjutant General Elliott C. Dill, shows 608 actual participants now residing in the state, and of this number 451 served in Maine organizations.

The legislature made an appropriation of $18,000 to pay for transportation of the Maine men to attend the 50th anniversary of the battle in July. The Maine contingent will leave Portland the evening of June 23. It is likely the governor and staff will also attend.

Many requests for free transportation have been received from non-participants who belong to organizations which took part in the battle or were otherwise connected with it. Applicants of this class have been informed that under the legislative resolve, actual participants would first be taken care of and then, if funds were available, consideration would be given to the cases of men who for one reason or another were not present. In this connection attention is particularly invited to the case of the Fourth Maine battery, which was in French's division, near Frederick, Md. This battery undoubtedly participated in the Gettysburg campaign, but could hardly be said to have had a part in the battle itself.

"The Boston & Maine and New York, New Haven & Hartford roads will furnish a special train for the journey from Portland to New York. It will be necessary to have some meals en route, and General Dill recommends that Lieutenant Colonel Blaine Owen of Augusta, chief commissary of the National Guard of Maine, be authorized to perfect arrangements for subsistence.

It is planned to establish a regimental hospital within the limits of the Maine camp at Gettysburg. This will make it certain that Maine men fall sick will be under the care of Maine doctors and not lost sight of in a general hospital to some distant section. It is recommended that all arrangements for medical attendance be turned over to Lieutenant Colonel Blaine P. Broadway of Norway, chief surgeon. It is expected a distinctive badge will be furnished by the state to Maine veterans.

Secretary of the 19th Maine Regiment association, has submitted a design, which combines the famous "High Water Mark" monument and the seal of the state. It is recommended that in making up the official party the ranking officers of the Grand Army and the Loyal Legion be included and that consideration be given to the propriety of including the ranking officials of the Army.

ORCHARD IMPROVEMENT.

Taking care of the orchards in Oxford County is becoming infectious. No matter which way you drive you see indications of it, and the orchardists are getting busy pruning, scraping the dead bark from the trunks, painting the wounds, etc. Many of them have applied the dormant spray, and nearly all are planning to spray when the buds show pink for the apple scale, and after the petals fall for the codling moth, realizing that if these two sprayings are properly done they can reasonably expect 95 per cent. perfect fruit. Spraying the trees at this time has a more lasting benefit than many seem to realize; it has a tonic effect on the leaves, making them larger and more vigorous, and they will stay on the trees from ten days to two weeks later in the fall than on unsprayed trees. This in turn means stronger fruit buds for the next year's crop.

Nearly all are going to use the commercial lime-sulphur as a fungicide, and lead arsenate for the insecticide, it having been demonstrated many times that this solution is safer to use in the orchard, especially on those varieties which are susceptible to rust. Where this has been used, at the rate of 1 gallon lime-sulphur to 49 gallons of water, with 2 1/2 pounds lead arsenate added, I have seen but very little injury to either fruit or foliage. Many of the orchards are being plowed, and will be fertilized for both size and color, they realize so well that these two factors determine the price which they will receive for the apples in the fall.

I think that it is safe to say that there was never a time when the orchard interests were so fully aroused in Oxford County as at the present, and when all were determined to do their best to bring the fruit industry to the standard of excellence.

SUMMER PREPARATIONS AT NORTHFIELD.

East Northfield, Mass., May 5, 1913.

Kennard Hall, the new administration building of The Northfield Schools and Summer Conference, is already the scene of active preparations for the Thirty First Annual Conference Season. This building, which is the gift of Mrs. John S. Kennedy of New York City, in memory of her husband, greatly facilitates the Northfield work. It is centrally located and contains the administrative offices formerly in scattered and cramped quarters.

Other important changes have also taken place. Marquand Hall, which has housed thousands during the past thirty years, was closed for repairs last summer. It has been completely remodelled and improved and, together with Gould Hall which was first used last summer and accommodates about one hundred and fifty guests, will add greatly to the capacity and comfort of the Conference grounds.

Nor is the expansion of the work in buildings alone. There has been a steady increase in all directions from year to year, not only in the number of speakers and visitors, but in the varied phases of truth presented. During the school year the Conference buildings are used by the five hundred girls of Northfield Seminary. The Summer work may be said to begin with the Seminary Commencement, June 7-10. Then follow in quick succession—the Student Conference; June 29-30; the Young Woman's Conference, July 2-3; the Summer School for Foreign Missions, July 10-17; the Home Missionary Conference, July 15-21; the Summer School for Sunday School Workers, July 19-20; the General Conference for Christian Workers, August 1-17. Some of the speakers already secured are: Dr. John R. Mott, Dr. Robert E. Speer, Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery, Rev. J. Stuart Hildes, Rev. John A. Hutton, Rev. A. T. Robertson, Rev. Charles Inglis, Rev. Len G. Houghton, Mr. Melvin Trotter, Dr. John Daniel Jones, Rev. Robert F. Y. Pierce and Dr. O. Campbell Morgan.

Made My Life Worth Living

"I feel it my duty to tell others what Chamberlain's Tablets have done for me," writes Mrs. L. Dunlap, of Oak Grove, Mich. "I have suffered with pains in my back and under my shoulder blades for a number of years, also with a poor appetite and constipation."

I tried all the remedies that I heard of, and a number of doctors, but got no relief. Finally a friend told me to try Chamberlain's Tablets and Liver Tablets. I got a bottle of them and they soon helped my stomach by their gentle action my bowels began moving regularly. Today I feel like praising them to all who are afflicted with these troubles."

The committee having been authorized to sit during the recess of the legislature, met on the fourth day of June, 1840, and after a session of 26 days, submitted their report to the legislature at an adjourned session, September 17, 1840. On October 21, 1849, the legislature passed an act for revision, arranging and amending the public laws of the State, which was approved October 22, 1849. This act was to take effect from and after the first day of April, 1851. By an act approved March 31, 1851, the operation of the act of October 22, 1849, was suspended until after July 31, 1851. That committee reported resolves, which were approved April 1, 1856, committing the further revision of the public and general laws of the State to Hon. Elisha Shapley, and directing him to prepare his report in print on or before November 15, 1856. In accordance with the resolves, the report of Judge Shapley was printed and distributed to the members of the legislature of 1857, and on January 12, 1857 was referred to a joint select committee consisting of nine members of the Senate and 16 members of the House of Representatives, which committee reported the revision of 1857, and the same was enacted April 10, 1857, approved April 12, 1857, and took effect from and after January 1, 1858. The preparation of the work for publication was entrusted to the same commissioners. Their labors ceased August 11, 1870, and by an order of the Council passed on that date, Ephraim Flint, Woodbury Davis and Artemus Libbey were requested and authorized to superintend the printing of the revised statutes until the vacancies on the commission were filled. January 6, 1871, Governor Perham, in a special message, submitted to the legislature a printed copy of the statutes and the same were enacted January 25, 1871, approved January 25, 1871, and took effect from and after February 1, 1871.

The fourth revision of the public laws of the State was authorized by resolves approved March 3, 1881, appointing Charles W. Goddard, of Portland, "a commissioner to revise, collate, arrange and consolidate the general and public laws of the State." His report was submitted to the legislature January 3, 1883, and by a resolve approved March 15, 1883, he was appointed "a commissioner to complete the revision of the general laws of the State," by the incorporation of the public laws of that session, to prepare the same for printing and to superintend the printing thereof. This work was performed under the supervision of a joint select committee of the legislature consisting of two members of the Senate and eight members of the House of Representatives, who were constituted a commission to sit during the recess of the legislature. This revision was finally submitted to the legislature at an adjourned session August 29, 1883, and was enacted and approved on that date, and took effect January 1, 1884.

Morrill Takes up Work.

The fifth revision of the public laws of the State was authorized by resolves approved March 21, 1901, appointing John A. Morrill, of Auburn, "a commissioner to revise, collate, arrange and consolidate the general and public laws of the State." ### POWDER IN SHOES AS WELL AS GUNS.

Foot-Powder to Be Added to Equipment of Hospital Corps at Fort Wayne.

Under the above heading the Detroit Free Press, among other things says: "The theory is that soldiers whose feet are in good condition can walk farther and faster than soldiers who have corns and blisters on their feet." "The Government's foot powder is regarded as the best in the scientific outfitting of the soldier."

Foot powder has long been in use in the German army, and Uncle Sam's adoption of this form of treating and caring the feet, is in line with the experience based daily for more than twenty years, in all parts of the world, from those who are shaking Allen's Foot-Powder, the acknowledged powder for the feet, into their shoes, on the one hand, to the latest treatment for curing and preventing sore feet. It can be obtained from dealers everywhere for 25c, or a trial package will be sent free if you write to Allen's Foot-Powder, Inc., N. Y.

MR. A. D. ELLINGWOOD.

"Among Bethel's most enterprising and progressive business men is Mr. A. D. Ellingwood, editor and publisher of the Bethel News. Coming to the place less than two years ago, with small capital and in the face of much discouragement and opposition, Mr. Ellingwood has by indefatigable energy and push, by constant labor and tact, established a business that is appreciated in the place, and felt to be needful to its growth, a business that is not only profitable now, but that is destined to assume much larger proportions in time to come."

Mr. Ellingwood was born March 24, 1863, in Milan, N. H., and has resided in that place until 1890. He received his education at Bridgton Academy and the Maine Wesleyan Seminary at Kent's Hill. In May, 1887, he was married to Miss Lena B. Cole, of Portland. They have two little daughters. In July, 1890, he removed to Berlin, N. H., and a year later went to Groveton, N. H., where he opened a job printing office and instituted the Groveton Enterprise, a local weekly paper. A good business was established, but, preferring a different locality, Mr. Ellingwood sold the plant to J. D. Dodge, editor of the Democrat, Lancaster, N. H., and came to Bethel in April, 1895. Renting the large room in the Cole block, formerly used as a gymnasium, he opened a job printing office, and the first week in the following June commenced the publication of the Bethel News, the second paper published in Bethel, the first having been the Bethel Courier, edited by Dr. Nathaniel T. True back in the fifties. Every one predicted failure for the new enterprise, considering the country already overstocked with local papers; but a flattering amount of success has rewarded the effort expended, and today the Bethel News stands on a level with its contemporaries, with a rapidly increasing subscription list. It is a bright, clean little paper, well printed, full of original matter, with local news, items from neighboring towns, State news, an interesting children's column, and many articles of interest. Increasing business demands increased facilities, and now two large rooms in the Cole block are occupied, and a good trade established in stationery, pens, etc.

"In September of the present year (1906), a half interest in the entire business was sold to Mr. Ernest C. Bowler, and business is now transacted under the firm name of the 'News Publishing Company.'"

Some of the results of Mr. E. D. Ellingwood's labors are before you, one of which is an illustrated edition of the News bearing the date of June 10, 1896, or "No. 3 of vol. Two" of an eight column paper, replete with half-tone cuts of men, residences and scenery pertaining to Bethel, interspersed with historical and genealogical matter which grows in value as time passes, the mechanical work being of the finest type of excellence and the composition as a whole good enough to satisfy the cravings of a literary epicure.

MR. ERNEST C. BOWLER.

Now a few lines relating to this man; not however for this day and generation, for he is among us but for the future, when the autumn leaves of individual life have fallen, and Old Age's quietude comes with his probing and sure book seeking the fruits of our worldly career.

It was in the town of Palermo, this State, on May 4, 1810, that Mr. Bowler's eyes were opened to the light of day among a family of nine children.

Dr. Hartman's Plain Talk to Young Men

My plain talk to young men in my last article certainly brought out many responses from young men. I take this means of answering them briefly, for the benefit of other young men who did not write me. One writer says: "I was greatly interested in your talk to young men. I wish I was as strong and well as you describe yourself to be. I am going to begin at once and follow your advice and take care of myself as I ought to. I will quit the use of all stimulants, tea and coffee, go to bed early. I will take the cold water towel bath every morning. I want to live to be old and useful, like you. And I shall also keep Peruna at hand, in case of slight ailments as they may arise. I thank you in the name of thousands of other young men, like myself."

To this letter I replied:

Bowler, and like many a boy in the way back farming districts, he had little opportunity for the obtaining of a liberal education, the town furnishing ten to eighteen weeks only of school privileges in the course of a year. Arriving at sufficient age, he was sent to the Canine Normal School from which he graduated in the month of June, 1890, at the age of 20 years and a month, adopting as a profession that of a school teacher in which he indulged five years, mostly in High Schools, serving as principal, his wife acting as assistant, whose maiden name was Miss Mabel Dugley of Hallowell, with whom he was united in marriage January 31, 1891, who have had born to them two children, as follows: Ernest C. Jr., Dec. 25, 1893 and Mary Ernestine, November 9, 1906.

He was for a period of four years Superintendent of schools in his native town and for six years President of the Waldo County Teachers' Association, and since locating in Bethel has served as School Superintendent two years.

It was September 10, 1896, that Mr. Bowler purchased of Mr. Ellingwood a half interest in the Bethel News, and upon the 10th day of the following month of March he purchased the remaining interest in the printing plant including the News, and Mr. Ellingwood retired to the north of Vermont but now resides in his native town of Milan, N. H., where he has a printing establishment.

On account of the size of Bethel, and patronage bestowed upon old papers Mr. Bowler found newspaper work alone an uphill journey. His ambition was to make a paper second to none in the county and a printing plant to correspond. He made improvements in every respect, employing the best of help and using the best of material.

In the year of 1899 the paper was enlarged from four to eight pages.

In the month of January 1904 he brought out an "Extra Illustrated Edition" of twenty-four pages, printed upon extra-line paper, containing sixty-one half-tone cuts of individuals, residences and scenery, now valuable as a standard work of reference. This work was 10x14 inches, thus rendering it convenient for handling. And 171 venture the assertion that a bound copy of the work cannot be found in the Bethel Public Library, nor can there be found an historical scrap-book made for the future from newspaper clippings of obituary notices and other important data of to-day.

In the year of 1906 an addition 15x30 feet was made to the building then occupied, for new equipments and some $7,000 was spent in the purchase of machinery, at which time there was installed a double magazine Linotype machine for the manufacture and setting of type at the same time, which was one of the first, if not the first type setting machine used in connection with country weeklies in the New England States.

This year (1906) Mr. Bowler started the "Hallowell Citizen," an eight page weekly paper, in the town of

My dear Boy:—I cannot tell you how much good your letter has done me. To know that I am avoiding the young man in matters of right living fills me with gratitude and enthusiasm. I want to help you. Write me any time you wish and I will consider your letter strictly confidential and give you prompt reply. Follow the advice I gave in my article. Whenever you have occasion to consult me further do not hesitate. Let us be friends. If you will be obedient to me as a son ought to be I will be faithful and true to you as a father ought to be. Bethel, which was conducted upon a more or less up-hill grade for a couple of years, when, in 1908, it was consolidated with the "Bethel News" and the two were christened by the name of

THE OXFORD COUNTY CITIZEN, which makes its weekly public appearance and courtesy, laden with fresh local news and sometimes much that is not local in production but fresh and educational.

Mr. Bowler has made a specialty of half-tone work, having published several Albums containing portraits of celebrated men; one of the Lawyers of Maine, a very valuable work, each plate containing genealogical data of the individual represented; one of like pattern of the Attorneys of Rhode Island and several of the members of our Maine Legislature.

He has published eight books of the York County Deeds, starting with volume eleven; also the Shaw family records and various other books and pamphlets, having made quite a specialty of this kind of work, not only throughout the State of Maine but other States.

Mr. Bowler has certainly built up in Bethel one of the most up-to-date publishing plants in Maine, and turns out a nice class of work—one that advertises itself not only by its outside appearance but by its character which business has a future.

It is not necessary to say for the enlightenment of the present public, but for the future, that Mr. Bowler was elected in 1912 as a member of the lower house of the State Legislature, was an active member, and at his return to Bethel was greeted upon his return home by his constituency with the cheering words—"Well done!"

On Dec. 1, 1912, Mr. Bowler split the entire publishing plant and paper to Mr. F. B. Merrill of Bethel.
